

Implementation of Online Single Submission (OSS) and Electronic Registration Systems at Directorate General of Sea Communication

August 26, 2019

Indonesia is home to the world's largest archipelago, and 2/3 (two-thirds) of Indonesia's territory is sea, lying between two continents and oceans. Among Indonesia's many islands, sea transportation can be the only way to reach inaccessible islands. In addition, Indonesia has an essential and strategic position and role in sea transportation along with a plethora of business opportunities to be cultivated in this sector.

Given Indonesia's important and strategic role in the sea transportation sector, it is vital for businesses to understand the procedures for vessel registration, obtaining a Sea Transportation Business License (Surat Izin Usaha Perusahaan Angkutan Laut or "SIUPAL"), and registration of hypothecation over vessels as security. Understanding these three forms of registration is crucial for any party which wants to operate vessels and enter any financing activities in Indonesia.
