

New Regulation for Export Procedures for Palm Oil, Crude Palm Oil and Derivative Products

April 30, 2019

The Indonesian government issued a new regulation on Verification or technical tracing of exports of palm oil, crude palm oil (“CPO”), and derivative products. The new regulation aims to further improve data accuracy, accelerate services and customs supervision in the export sector for palm oil, CPO and derivative products as well as improve the effectiveness of the export procedure.

What’s in the new regulation, and how does it differ from the previous one? Dentons HPRP’s lawyers, Maurice Maulana Situmorang (Partner), Dinda Triwijanarko (Senior Associate), and Vanya Edria Rahmani (Associate) have prepared a comprehensive article regarding the new regulation highlighting the important points.
