

Nickel Export Ban: a Gateway to the Development of an Indonesia Electric Vehicle Industry?

December 3, 2019

The Minister of Energy and Mineral Resources of the Republic of Indonesia (“MEMR”) has issued a new regulation concerning Mineral and Coal business to amend the previous regulation with regard to such sector. The new regulation contains provisions in relation to the ban on nickel export, as following the promulgation of the regulation, there will no longer be any relaxation on the export of nickel.

What else is in the new regulation, and how does it impact the electric vehicle industry? Dentons HPRP’s lawyers, Maurice Maulana Situmorang (Partner) and Akbar Bayu (Associate) have prepared a comprehensive article regarding the new regulation highlighting the important points. The complete article was published in the mineral magazine “Coal Asia”, October – November 2019 edition.
